Project: A five-week, football-themed literacy program that encourages students to read at home and school and earn prizes for "reading touchdowns." Participants included 4th, 5th, 6th grade students (age 9-12), their parents and teachers.

Program Description: What we did and why

- The Sun Sentinel News In Education Department (NIE) took on the mission of increasing literacy amongst 4th, 5th, and 6th grade students in South Florida schools. At the same time, increasing our newspaper brand and circulation was a goal.
- We especially wanted to interest boys to participate in the program, because traditionally they read less than girls.
- Currently, in Florida schools, funding has decreased, so providing free material, a contest, and prizes is always welcomed!
- Buy-in from the teachers and parents was essential to the program's success. We included a parental component and prizes for teachers.

Program Description: What we did and why

- NIE and Advertising collaborated to gain funding for the NIE program entitled, Publix's Reading for Touchdowns. The two departments secured funding for the program with Publix Super Markets as the presenting sponsor and GameWorks as the prize sponsor.
- 4th, 5th and 6th grade teachers were invited to register their classrooms in Publix's Reading for Touchdowns. This 5-week reading program encourages students to read at home and at work, and provides every student an incentive for completing the program.

Program Description: What we did and why

- Each student received a 16-page Student Playbook to record their time spent reading. Each minute translated into a “yard”, ultimately resulting in students earning “touchdowns” for reading. Playbook also included information on reading goals, book reports, sports maps and a reading log. Students were able to complete extra credit activities to earn additional yards.
- Included inside the Student Playbook was a parent section, Coach’s Manual, that was sent home to assist parents in encouraging their children to read at home and confirm reading minutes recorded. The Coach’s Manual explained the purpose of the program, the importance of reading, directions and a plan for success.
- Each teacher received an 11-page General Manager’s Guide Book, including information on teacher’s role and responsibilities, reading guidelines, tally sheets, and an end of program survey.

Program Description: What we did and why

- The goal for the program was to have 45,000 students participate. Goals were measured by the registration forms received, tally sheets confirming students' reading, and teacher surveys. The goals for the program were exceeded in all respects!
- 2,500 educators registered their classes for the program.
- 66,000 students were enrolled, and each of their parents signed-off on the reading.
- 2 events were also launched with close to 350 educators attending.
- At the events, educators were treated to pre-registration for the program, a dinner buffet, and an evening of fun and Games at GameWorks (arcade style venue).

Program Description: What we did and why

- Platforms: in-paper ads, online ads, direct mail flyers, email blasts of all flyers/registration forms and teacher guides to educators, tabs delivered to schools, teacher guides delivered and posted online, all materials posted on website at www.SunSentinel.com/nie.
- To view photos from the events, visit us on Facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/people/Sun-Sentinel-Nie/1499778998?sid=0>
- Other benefits: the program provided 100,000 copies of print and Digital Editions of the Sun Sentinel newspaper to classrooms. This contributed to NIE's 33% Digital Edition increase in circulation.
- Brand awareness from the many platforms used was invaluable. The ads, direct mail flyers, posting of materials on the NIE website all contributed to an increase in page views on our website.

Timeline

- Creation of all ads, flyers, tab and teacher guide.
- Direct mail, email blast, and post materials on NIE website.
- Run promo ads in paper and online.
- Host 2 Kickoff Parties at GameWorks.
- Registration for Program.
- Confirm all registrations via email.
- Deliver all materials to schools.
- Reading program for 5 week.
- Accept entries and surveys from educators.
- Select and notify all winners for the program.
- Plan and host 3 winners Cake Parties events.
- Distribute prizes including school banners, teacher gift cards, and Miami Dolphins football tickets.
- Mail and deliver GameWorks certificates to all students.
- Run congratulatory winners ad in paper.

JUST FOR FUN (AND EXTRA CREDIT!) GET THOSE TOUCHDOWNS!

Below you will find activities you can do to earn "extra" yards. Each activity you complete is worth 30 yards.

JUST FOR FUN (AND EXTRA CREDIT!)

Activity #1: Write a short story, poem, or song about your favorite sport. Using any materials you like (paint, cutouts, drawings, chalk, clay, even computer graphics) design an illustration to go with your writing. (30 yards)

Activity #2: Write a biographical essay about any person you admire. It can be someone famous, a family member, a friend, or someone you have read about. Include all the reasons you admire this person. Share your essay with your class. (30 yards)

Activity #3: Create your own comic strip using Plato the Publixaurus or your own original mascot as the main character. (Check out the top of this page if you want to see what Plato looks like) (30 yards)

Activity #4: Write a fan letter to your favorite football player or an athlete you admire. Tell why he or she is your favorite. (30 yards)

Activity #5: Write a short paragraph, poem, song, jingle or letter about your favorite Publix or GreenWise brand food product. Illustrate your writing with a drawing of yourself enjoying your favorite food item. (30 yards)

Activity #6: Pretend you have $100.00 to spend on food items in your local Publix or Publix GreenWise Market. Look through the Publix ads in your Sun Sentinel to find prices or go to the store with an adult. Make a list of all the food items you can buy for up to $100.00. Compare with your classmates to see who has the longest list. Stay within your budget! (30 yards)

Activity #7: Use the Sun Sentinel or go online to www.SunSentinel.com for stories about other sports besides football, baseball, or basketball. Choose one that interests you and research it. It can be anything from tennis to fishing, or other sports you may have seen in the 2008 Olympics. Give an oral report to your class about what you have found out about your sport. Illustrate with drawings or pictures if you like. (30 yards)

Activity #8: Create a short video about why you like to read and the Sun Sentinel at school or home. Include what your favorite sections are and why. NOTE: If you would like your video to possibly be posted on www.SunSentinel.com/nie email it to drahamim@SunSentinel.com or mail it to Sun Sentinel NIE, Attn: Debbie Rahamim, 333 SW 12th Ave, Deerfield Beach, FL 33442 (30 yards)

SPORTS MAP*

Each sports map you complete is worth 30 yards.

GAMEWORKS®

Development: Financing and Partners

- Sun Sentinel NIE initiated the program and secured $18,000 in funding from Publix.
- GameWorks also came on board as the prize sponsor.
- Publix also provided: Miami Dolphins football tickets, cake/drinks for cake parties, promo items for cake parties, mascot attended cake parties.
- GameWorks provided: hosting 2 events at their locations, food/drinks and promo items for events, certificates for each student valued at $10 each. Their overall contribution is valued at $100,000!
- Sun Sentinel provided: promo ads, direct mail flyers/ mailing, design/print/delivery of all materials, banners, coordination and execution of entire program. Sun Sentinel editorial also reported on the program and the successful Teacher Kickoff Parties.
- The reading also counted towards another School District program called Reading Across Broward.

Marketing: How we promoted it

- Sun Sentinel NIE did a tremendous amount of marketing to promote Publix's Reading for Touchdowns.
- Efforts included: in-paper promo ads, promo ads for events, direct mail flyers both mailed and emailed to schools, promo ads running online, all materials and flyers posted at Sun Sentinel NIE website www.SunSentinel.com/nie, on-site registration at the 2 Teacher Kickoff Events, article in Sun Sentinel on the program and registration process, continuous email contact with registered participants, email blasts by school officials, posting of materials on school districts intranet sites, and promotions through NIE's teacher advisory board and ambassadors.
- All marketing collateral included the logo of the newspaper for branding purposes.

Evaluation & Results: How it went

- At end of program, teachers had a 2-week period to submit tally sheets and surveys. The tally sheets included the reading time at home and at school.
- NIE tallied the results and selected the winners.

Prizes were as follows:

- -Top 3 schools – a banner to hang in school lobby
- -Top 3 classes - a party in the classroom and those teachers received a $100 GameWorks gift certificate
- -Top 3 students - attended a Miami Dolphins football game with their family and their picture as winners in the Sun Sentinel
- GameWorks offered game cards to EVERY SINGLE student who completed the program!

Evaluation & Results: Benefits

- Publix's Reading for Touchdowns was a tremendous success. This was demonstrated in the 2,500 teachers who signed up over 66,000 students!
- Benefits: students reading more with a new passion, parents increasing their participation in their child's schoolwork, teachers having a fun new way to encourage reading, teachers and students rewarded for their efforts, brand awareness for the Sun Sentinel and sponsors, revenue for the newspaper, increased circulation.
- From the surveys, we received many positive comments from teachers and students about their appreciation for the program and its positive outcome. Kids were reading more for fun, playing less video games, and excited about the incentives provided. Many of the students also completed extra credit activities which were reported on the tally sheets.
- The program was a success for the Sun Sentinel. It provided recognition and branding among subscribers, teachers, parents, students, other Sun Sentinel departments, and other NIE programs.

Evaluation & Results: adapted for other countries

- Publix's Reading for Touchdowns already extends throughout all of South Florida. It's a great way to increase branding and increase the use of the Sun Sentinel in classrooms.
- Sun Sentinel NIE is in discussions with Publix Super Markets to expand the program into a 5 state program for 2010! It can easily be replicated and expanded to any market with any newspaper.
- The program can also be adapted for other countries to include that country's popular sport whether it be soccer, rugby, swimming etc. The concept can stay the same, changing the "yards read" to "goals scored" and so on.

Evaluation & Results: Testimonials

- “My class was very enthusiastic about reading to earn lots of yards.”
- “The students were motivated to read because of the fact that the program was related to a popular sport and the prizes.”
- “Let them find what they like to read . . . and especially for boys, the football thing is a great motivation. The more they read the better readers they will become.”
- “The students began challenging each other to read longer.”
- “One mother was so pleased to see her daughter reading daily and enjoying it .”
- “I hope you offer it again next year!”
